Constitution and By-Laws For the Government of the Catholic Union.

Will Be Directed by Executive Committee and Meet Monthly.

Affiliation With National Federation of Catholic Clubs Approved.

MEETS NEXT WITH AQUINAS UNION.

The most interesting meeting yet held by the Catholic Union was presided over by President Edward J. McDermott at Trinity Hall Sunday afternoon. The delegates all took part in the proceedings, which were important throughout, including changes in the constitution and the adoption of by-laws, which now leaves the body thoroughly organized and ready to enter actively upon the work for which it was organized.

The changes in the constitution recommended by the Board of Directors were read by Secretary Cooney. Each was carefully considered, and after full discussion all were approved of. Instead of a large and cumbersome Board of Directors there will be an Executive Committee of at least seven members, thus giving representation to all organizations rather than divisions or branches. The Executive Committee will have great power in the interim between meetings, but will report all its business to the union. It may also call special meetings and act in matters not provided for in the constitution and by-laws.

Hereafter the sessions of the union will be held on the 28th of each month at 7:30 p. m., thus interfering but very little with the meetings of any of the affiliated societies and insuring a larger attendance of delegates. There was an almost unanimous feeling against Sunday sessions, and the foregoing date was chosen only after considerable debate. The Chairman of each delegation will receive official notification of all meetings and transmit the same to his colleagues and the body they represent.

Upon motion it was decided to notify the promoters of the National Federation of Catholic Clubs, who have called a meeting at the Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York City for Thanksgiving day, that the movement met with the approval of the union, which would affiliate and later send delegates to the national meetings.

For the purpose of creating greater interest in the union and making Catholics generally better acquainted with its purposes and acts it was unanimously decided to invite the entire membership of those bodies at whose halls meetings were held, who will receive a hearty welcome, though not allowed to participate in the proceedings.

President John Croft presented a cordial invitation to the union to hold its next meeting, which occurs Wednesday evening, November 28, with the Aquinas Union at its hall on Sixth street, near Oak, and it was unanimously accepted. Rumor has it that the Aquinas members have arranged a pleasant surprise for the delegates and members that evening, but its nature will not be made known for the present. However, those who fail to attend will certainly miss much that would entertain and interest them.

The meeting was made interesting by remarks by President Sullivan of Trinity Council, President McDermott, David O'Connell, Dr. J. W. Fowler, Dan Tierney, Pat Holly, Miss Mary Sheridan, James Rogers and other. Quite a number of responses were received to the circular sent out by Secretary Cooney, who expects many more before the next meeting.

LECTURE A SUCCESS.

Sacred Heart Church Packed to Hear Rev. Father Hayes.

Perhaps the largest gathering of people ever witnessed at the Sacred Heart church assembled there last Sunday night to hear Rev. Father Hayes, of Bowling Green, deliver his "Reunions of Rome." First the pews were filled, then the aisles, and finally ladies were seated at the alter railing, besides which a large number of city clergymen occupied seats in the sanctuary.

Father Hayes is one of the most pleasing speakers in this State, and his lecture surpasses any heard here for a long time, easily pronouncing it the most brilliant as well as interesting they ever listened to.

Father Hayes entered the pulpit and paid a beautiful tribute to the St. Vincent de Paul Society, passing over its origin and history, and telling of its relation to the church. Then he took his hearers from Naples to Pompeii, then to Rome, and from there to France and Ireland, and his word-painting entranced all. Going back again to Rome, the Rome of old, he gave a most realistic description of it from its foundation to the present day. To attempt to do the lecture justice in a synopsis would be ridiculous. It was a masterly effort and should be heard to be appreciated. It is one that ought to fill the Auditorium could Father Hayes be induced to repeat it there. From beginning to end his pleased auditors took in every word, and were it anywhere else the applause would have been tremendous when he closed with his eloquent and touching allusion to Pope Leo.

After the devotions that followed the lecture many expressed their gratitude to Rev. Father Walsh and the St. Vincent de Paul Society for bringing Father Hayes where they could hear him.

ALUMNAE SOCIETY.

Its Grand Euchre Party the Largest Ever Given Here.

The prize euchre party given at Music Hall last Monday night under the auspices of the Alumnae Society of the Academy of Our Lady of Mercy was the grandest ever given in Louisville, both socially and as to number of players, of whom there were nearly 800, representing the best class of society people. All took advantage of the opportunity to show their appreciation of the young ladies who for the past couple of months worked so zealously for the Sisters' bazaar. Their pretty booth was always surrounded by friends and patrons and the high suggestion was made that after the close of the bazaar they arrange for the special entertainment of all who had aided them. The euchre party was thus decided upon, and its surprising popularity and success greatly exceeded their most sanguine expectations. The alumnae ladies, whose names were given last week, received their guests most charmingly and made the evening indeed enjoyable for them. Every available inch of space was occupied and there were besides many spectators present to witness the games.

There were twenty prizes contested for, the lucky winners being announced in the following order:

Miss Katherine Hubbuck, set solid silver forks.

Mrs. A. H. Hukerbeck, solid gold stand mirror.

Miss Mamie Boscawd, jardiniere, pedestal and palm.

Mrs. George Russell, hand embroidered table cover.

Mrs. Phil Erwine, order for Wybrant cabinet pictures.

Miss Emma Smith, hand painted chocolate jar.

Miss Katie Guy, handsome Parisian handkerchief sack.

Miss L. Frehling, hand embroidered handkerchiefs.

Miss Mary Kelly, handsome glove case, Pat Bannon, Jr., pair patent leather shoes.

Henry Evers, gold triumphant umbrella, A. Isaacs, order for dozen Wybrant photographs.

Albert Koertner, pair silver trimmed suspenders.

John Smith, dozen linen handkerchiefs, George Hurley, Dr. William B. Doherty's lecture book.

Le Kuhn, dozen gent's half hose.

E. Goodcase, Stetson silk hat and band.

Thomas Higgins, beautiful silk and satin tie.

James L. Rapier, exquisite applewood pipe.

The closing games were animated and exciting, and this will reinstate the record breaking euchre for a long time to come.

CELEBRATE TOMORROW.

St. John's Conference of the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

St. John's conference of the St. Vincent de Paul Society will tomorrow morning celebrate its forty-fourth anniversary, the active and honorary members receiving holy communion in a body at the 7:30 mass. This conference was brought into existence on the first Sunday in November, 1856, by the Very Rev. Father Bax, and has therefore been in active operation forty-four years, during which long period of time thousands of dollars have been disbursed in charity and numberless worthy families relieved while in distress.

The regular conference meeting will take place in St. John's school hall tomorrow afternoon immediately after vespers, when the members of the conference of all other parishes will be welcomed. There are few, if any, other Catholic societies in this city older than this, and the anniversary services will be made appropriate to so notable an occasion. The present officers, several of whom have served for many years, are as follows:

Spiritual Director—Very Rev. Father Bax.

President—John Murray.

Vice President—E. J. Mann.

Secretary—B. J. Metcalfe.

Treasurer—Thomas F. Hill.

PASSED AWAY WHILE ASLEEP.

Mrs. Mary Croft, wife of George Croft, died Tuesday afternoon at her family residence, 711 Fifteenth street, after an illness of only a week's duration. Saturday night she entered into what appeared a quiet sleep, that continued until her death, sixty-seven hours afterward. The deceased was forty-eight years old, and besides her husband leaves three children to mourn her loss. Her funeral took place at St. Mary's church Thursday, and the remains were followed to their last resting place by many sorrowing friends and relatives.

GAEIC LEAGUE

Has Gained Many Notable Adherents During Past Year.

Seldom has there been even within the old walls of the historic Rotunda a finer gathering, representative of all that is best in Irish life, than that which assembled recently in Dublin to hear Dr. Douglas Hyde's lecture on "The Educative Influence of the Gaelic League." The audience was worthy of the lecturer and the lecturer of the audience. A higher compliment could not be paid to either. When the Chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, when W. B. Yeats and other foremost figures in the literary world, educationists like Dr. O'Hickey and Father Murphy, accomplished writers like Father Sheehan, teachers and artisans, business men, professional men, priests and laymen, men and women, come forward to identify themselves absolutely and unreservedly with a certain course, there can be no doubt but that it is the course which the nation is bent on taking. Moreover, this course, which is nothing more or less than the recreation of an Irish Ireland, has not been entered on thoughtlessly, nor is it going to be abandoned lightly. Those who are committed to it mean to persist with dogged perseverance till the end in view is attained. If ever people were in earnest Gaelic Leaguers are, declares the Dublin Independent.

Last Thursday's magnificent meeting was a striking evidence of the progress of the movement since last year, when the session of the central branch was opened by Father Yorke's lecture. Then the promoters of the undertaking were satisfied with filling the Antient Concert Rooms. Now the audience bidden to a similar function overflows the Rotunda, and if the movement continues to attract adherents at the same rate as it has done during the past year, there will soon be no hall in Dublin large enough to contain a Gaelic League gathering.

The title of Father Yorke's lecture was well chosen. The turning of the tide has indeed come; a tide that will sweep all before it. The Gaelic League has reason to congratulate itself on having gained many notable adherents. Some of the most representative Irishmen of the day are to be found in its ranks, but few pronouncements made in its favour carry such weight, and consequently give cause for such unbound satisfaction to the League as the euphatic declaration of John Redmond, who said: "I am delighted at the opportunity afforded of publicly identifying myself with the Gaelic League," and having explained his thorough sympathy with the whole scope of the language movement, the truly national character of which he recognizes, he went on to say that his services might be counted on to further the cause "inside and outside of Parliament." It is needless to point out how valuable to the movement is this thoroughgoing advocacy of the Chairman of the Parliamentary party.

The United Irish League had against it an array of influences, selfish, anti-national, corrupt, that to all human seeming there was no resisting.

Lo! the morning after the great encounter the League holds the field by a majority more overpowering than ever an Irish political organization commanded before and the scattered items of the Healyite cohorts in their ruin and their slaves are crying to the hills to fall upon them and hide their heads.

The electors showed a temper so unmistakable and irresistible that in only three instances out of eighty-one did any open antagonist of the League take heart to challenge their verdict.

A national convention has now been summoned by the League to direct the future course of the new Irish party and to cheer, guide and stimulate Mr. Redmond and his colleagues in their great work of forcing the Irish question to the front in the British Parliament by every means that courage, combat and self-sacrifice can supply.

The weaklings and rogues who coolly propose to undo the whole work of the general election by taking Healy back into the bosom of the party he brought to death's door might as well propose that the party should begin and end its new career by swallowing a dose of prussic acid.

The virulent poison which was severing the blood of the country and corrupting Irish public life has been expelled from its system. Mr. Redmond and his faithful colleagues, old and new, will be free to turn all their power and vigor toward an assault all along the line on landlordism and Dublin Castle.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN.

It is evident from O'Brien's statement that the first business of the new party will be to expel Healy, a course to which some objection is being raised by the few Nationalists who argue that Healy will now turn over a new leaf.

FIRST MASK PARTY.

Invitations have been issued for the select mask party of the Bantam Leaf Society, which takes place at Fisher's Hall, Baxter Avenue, on Monday night, November 12. The organization is composed of well-known young men of the East End. Those having the affair in charge are James Minogue, James Burke, Jake Trebing, Will Ford and Henry Minogue.

Such a work at only ten cents a copy will doubtless meet with a large sale.

MORE WORK FOR THE MEMBERS

The Irish-American Society at its meeting Thursday night decided by unanimous vote to celebrate the coming anniversary of Robert Emmet, Ireland's martyr patriot, and this will be most pleasing intelligence to the sons and daughters of the Green Isle residing in this city. The celebration will be on an elaborate scale, the desire being to surpass any event of a similar character ever witnessed in Louisville. Enthusiastic remarks were made when the subject was introduced, all favoring an annual observance of the day hereafter.

The attendance at Thursday night's meeting was surprisingly large when one remembers the many political meetings that were being held throughout the city and the many other attractions to interest the members. Vice President Claire occupied the chair in the absence of President Feeney, and Joe Nevin was appointed First Vice President. The usual routine business was transacted and claims allowed, and the proceedings were very interesting. Quite a number of applications for membership were received, and there were other evidences of increased interest in this organization.

The resolution that the anniversary of Robert Emmet be annually celebrated by the Irish-American Society was received with great favor, enthusiastic speeches being made by Tom Canfield, John Flynn, Gus Kain and others, and then unanimously adopted. The remarks of all urged that the initial commemoration be one that will never be forgotten, and that all members interest themselves at once. Upon motion the entire matter was referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Joe Byrne, William Patterson, Joe Nevin, Tom Tarpey, J. F. Chester and Pat Connaughton, who will determine the manner of observing the event and report at the next meeting. The committee is a strong one and if continued will arrange for a celebration that will mark an era in the history of the Irish-Americans of Louisville. The next meeting takes place November 15, and all should be present to be assigned their share of the work in this grand undertaking.

CANDY PULLING TODAY

The Little Folks Will Have a Jolly Time at Holy Cross School.

Rev. B. F. Cunningham, the successful and popular pastor of Holy Cross church, will entertain the pupils of his school and their little friends this afternoon with a candy pulling, which will commence at 2 o'clock in the school room and continue several hours. The one given last year was attended by children from all parts of the city, who will rejoice at the announcement of another such jolly affair. They will receive a cordial welcome today and all the candy they want.

After school last Wednesday afternoon the children were given a most unexpected but agreeable surprise. Father Cunningham, who never tires of making the little ones happy, had arranged a number of Halloween games for their amusement, such as ducking in tubs of water for small coins, bobbing for apples, etc., and a nice treat for each one.

There were but twenty-four pupils in attendance when Holy Cross school was opened five years ago, while today the number has been increased to eighty-five, for which the most credit is due the zealous pastor, who has endeared himself to every one of them by his uniform kindness and interest in all matters pertaining to their present amusement and future welfare. Those who attend this afternoon will not soon forget the happy occasion.

LEAVES SEVEN CHILDREN.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. Joseph Discher, which occurred Thursday at her home on the Taylorsville road, after a brief illness. She was the daughter of Mrs. Euphrasina Geher and sister of Messrs. Frank and Bernard Geher. Besides her husband she leaves seven children to mourn the loss of loving and Christian mother, four of whom are now ill of typhoid fever. Her funeral takes place this morning from St. Francis of Assisi church. Rev. Patrick White will be the celebrant of the solemn requiem mass. To the bereaved husband and children we extend our hearty sympathy.

ENGLISH RIDICULE.

English mill men are worried over the prospect that the blasted Americans may get the contract for furnishing rails, locomotives and cars for the English railroads to be built in Africa. The bid of the Americans is believed to be not only cheaper, but guarantees to finish and deliver the work months earlier than the English bidders can figure to be possible. The English press have joined in and seek to ridicule the idea of the American workmen being so much superior to the English. The fact, however, of the building of an iron railroad bridge in Africa, awarded to an American company, was finished at less cost and from six months to a year sooner than any English bidder could guarantee gives ground for the apprehensions of the English mill men and manufacturers generally, as they see the probability of losing, even in British territory, the work they consider as belonging to them of right given to their coming and growing rival, the American iron workers.

THEIR FIRST LESSON.

The carpenters and builders are having their first real lesson in the sincerity of the politicians' love for the workingmen, and they are much aggrieved and angered. It is a bitter dose, but the medicine is necessary to a cure. The carpenters and builders must learn, and doubtless will, as have others, that politicians of all parties have to be continually watched and frequently reminded of their promises to workingmen, and occasionally defeated—no matter what ticket they are on—to impress the fact that the workingmen are not suckers, but really in earnest in their demands. The carpenters have our sympathy and best wishes for success, but they will have to throw partisanship to the winds at times, vote and work for their friends and against their enemies, if they would have the politician respect them, consider and grant their petitions and protect their interests. The workingmen who do this usually get what they want, the "opinions" of attorneys to the contrary notwithstanding, and these classes of workingmen are not as numerous as the carpenters and builders.

THEIR GAINS.

The anthracite miners' strike is over except in a few instances where small operators have not accepted terms, but these affect nothing since the larger mines need extra force to work to catch up with orders, and 15,000 of the miners left during the strike to take places in the West and South. As 140,000 miners have resumed work there are not many without employment in the district. The victory, though not complete in obtaining all the miners first demanded, yet gives them specifically all they asked in their compromise, viz.: The abolition of the sliding scale which rendered the amount of their wages uncertain; a fixed basis of wages and a 10 per cent increase; reduction of rice of powder, which the miners buy, from $2.25 to $1.50 per keg; and, finally, that the agreement is to be in force till the end of the mining season—April, 1901. It is noteworthy that the operators who have not accepted the terms are those who summoned the "Pinkerton" and militia and at which mining occurred. Their miners are going to work elsewhere, and the mines will likely have to shut down.

ACCEPTED WITH RESERVE.

The agreement between Great Britain and Germany has been accepted by all the leading powers, the United States accepting it with reserve as to the third clause, which is held to be immaterial at present. However, the United States does not approve that clause, which indicates that Uncle Sam is not nibbling at baits that seem to be sugar-coated. Though it has not been published, it seems that France and Russia have followed Uncle Sam's example. As negotiations for the settlement of the Chinese trouble will now proceed the cat in the meal tub may be exposed. The first hitch is caused by England not being ready, as she desires another than her Minister to China to represent her in the negotiations, though all the others will be so represented. As the English appointee is en route there has as yet been no delay, as the preliminaries only are being arranged. It will be interesting to note which, if any, of the powers kick out of the traces and prevent the carrying out of the British-German agreement.

London celebrated the return of the London troops from South Africa and the "end of the war" last week. It was marred, however, by the fact that on that same day the Boers administered three crushing defeats to the British and President Steyn re-established his seat of government in the Orange Free State. London, nevertheless, celebrated as it never did before, and so "unbounded was the enthusiasm" that hundreds of women as well as men were hilariously, boisterously and helplessly drunk on the streets, and the police were powerless to maintain even decent behavior.

Irish-Americans generally will be glad to know that the anniversary of Robert Emmet, Ireland's martyr patriot, will be appropriately observed in this city annually hereafter by the Irish-American Society. This was decided upon Thursday night and should meet with hearty approval. The beneficial effects of the good work of this organization are becoming more and more apparent, and will continue to increase despite the knocks of the few who some time ago so falsely misrepresented its objects and members.

The gambling shenanigan in the courts for the past two years seems to have gotten some of our city and county officers and a few lawyers into a very tight box. They may get out of it by trickery and subterfuge as heretofore, but it is plain that these tricks only defer the inevitable result, as such practices can finally terminate in but one way—humiliation and disgrace, if not actual impeachment for officials, disbarment for lawyers, and the penitentiary for others.

Not the least important offices to be filled at Tuesday's election are those of School Trustees. No one is better qualified for the position than Dr. Albert Deig, who possesses the education and ability necessary for the important trust. Elect him and the schools will benefit thereby.

FATHER FOWLER

Meets a Representative Gathering of His Parishioners Last Tuesday Evening.

Quite a large gathering of the representative ladies and gentlemen of St. Louis Bertrand's parish assembled at the school hall last Tuesday evening to meet Rev. Father Fowler, the new prior, who had arranged the meeting in order to become acquainted with the members of his congregation. During his short stay Father Fowler has already endeared himself to the congregation and gives great promise of repeating the success of his predecessor, Rev. Father Logan.

FUNERAL THIS MORNING.

The funeral of the Rev. Father Inhof, who died Thursday evening at St. Joseph's Infirmary, will take place from the Cathedral this morning. The deceased clergyman had been stationed at St. Bernard, Casey county, and the news of his death has caused deep sorrow among not only his parishioners, but all who knew him. He was a zealous priest and labored faithfully for the elevation of his fellowmen. He did missionary work among the aborigines in equatorial Africa for a period of about three years, but owing to the intense heat of the climate he suffered failing health and was obliged to return to Europe, where his condition was improved, from whence he came to Kentucky several years ago. His remains will be interred in Casey county, where he last resided. May he rest in peace.

THEATRICALS.

"Lost Twenty-Four Hours" has been selected for the Meffert-Eagle Stock Company at the Temple Theater next week, and it will prove one of the strongest and pleasing bills of the season. This is the great laughing success in which Robert Hilliard scored his big hit, and it is believed will exceed in popularity any comedy heretofore presented at the Temple Theater. The cast will provide for all the company well. There is no sign of falling off either in the audiences or enthusiasm which have thus far greeted the Temple company this season. The charm of their work grows with each seeing and each portrayal seems stronger than its predecessor. The story concerns a New Yorker who, while his wife is away visiting, spent an evening out with the boys, came home late Sunday night and slept until Tuesday, losing twenty-four hours, which causes him to be sued on a note, have a misunderstanding with his wife, whom he supposes arrives home a day ahead of time, and leads to many other amusing complications. The situations are so ludicrous, yet so naturally brought about, that the spectator is not only amused but interested throughout the three acts that it takes to unwind the tangle. The ladies attending Monday night will receive a souvenir photograph of Miss Madeline Lack, whose excellent work has won for her the admiration of all the patrons of the Temple. She will be seen to better advantage next week than in "His Last Chance," when she made the hit of the season, her Irish comedy equaling anything yet seen in Louisville. Those who would spend a really enjoyable afternoon or evening may do so next week at the Temple.

The Royal Burlesquers will be the attraction at the Buckingham next week, commencing with the usual Sunday matinee, and it goes without saying that the show will be an excellent one. The calendar of the Clark Brothers' attractions has always been beyond criticism and it has been their aim to improve with age. The show is now in its third season and reports from every city where it has appeared pronounce it one of the very best ever placed on the road. The company includes nearly a score of well known comedians and specialty artists and an equal number of pretty girls, who possess sweet voices and can dance gracefully. The vaudeville programme is composed of new and original specialties. There will also be exhibited a series of up-to-date moving pictures, which will be seen here for the first time and the latest Parisian importation, the electrical gallope by the twelve mignonettes. Two musical farces open and close the performance. The first is entitled "Gay Travelers," and is said to be entirely different from anything in its line ever attempted, while the closing number, "Senator McPhee," is a rousing finale, serving to cap the climax with a hurricane of mirth and melody. On Tuesday night the Buckingham will have special wires in the theatre, by which will be received the complete election returns from every State, county and town in the United States. There will be no advance in prices.

The Avenue will next week present its patron another of Hoyt's best comedies, entitled "A Hole in the Ground." The company is said to be an excellent one, containing artists of more than ordinary ability. The scenery and stage setting will be the same as that used in the larger theaters for former productions.

Misses Josie Kincaid and Inez McCoy gave delightful Halloween parties to their friends in Jeffersontown Wednesday last.

Miss Edith Doherty was the winner of the first prize at the euchre in Holy Trinity Hall in New Albany last Monday night.

Mrs. Joe G. Barry, prominent in Nelson county social circles, was among those visiting in Louisville the first part of the week.

Louis Doughtery, of Butte, Mont., arrived in New Albany this week, where he is visiting his sister, Mrs. Louis Vernia, East Oak street.

Mrs. Miller and Miss Sallie Lanahan are expected home today from Knoxville, Tenn., where they were the guests of Mrs. John Russell.

Miss Mary Agnes Thompson has arrived here from Alexandria, Ind., and will spend the winter with Mrs. William Kelly, 1040 Fourth street.

It looked as if a young campaign orator in Limerick lately had only an audience of one, and that one a popular young lady of that section.

Mr. and Mrs. John Amshoff, who were married last week, have returned from their honeymoon trip and are at home to their friends at 1061 Goss avenue.

Miss Alice Cain was the hostess at a delightful Halloween party Wednesday evening. Many games were played and all were enjoyed by the many guests.

William Doolan, who has just undergone an operation at Sts. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, is convalescing rapidly and expects to be out next week.

Hon. Hugh O'Connor, of Corydon, candidate for Congress, spent several days with friends in Floyd and Clark counties, who are now very anxious that he be elected.

John J. Winn, a well-known young man of Limerick and prominent in Hibernian circles, left last week for Frankfort to accept a position with a large shoe factory of that place.

The marriage of Miss Katie Browning and Edward McCarty was made public this week. The ceremony was performed in New Albany, August 15, but they had kept the affair secret.

Andy Meagher is asking his friends if it is a bad omen to have "I Don't Care If You Never Come Back" played on the piano to you when making a social call. All that happened to him recently.

Miss Elizabeth Smith entertained a large number of her friends at a Halloween party at her home on Seventh street Wednesday evening. The pretty hostess provided much amusement and a really enjoyable time for her guests.

Rev. Joseph McNamire, pastor of St. Patrick's church, West Adams street, Chicago, and Bernie McDevitt, of this city, were among this week's departures from West Baden Springs, where they had been recuperating for about ten days.

Will Savage, formerly with the Dennis Long Company in this city, but for the past year located in Chicago, has been here for the past week visiting his parents and friends. His position in the Windy City is a responsible one and his prospects are good for still further advancement.

Tyler Brown entertained his little playmates with a Halloween party last Wednesday at his residence, 1614 Seventh street. Those present were David Owens, Dan Mangani, Jim Sweeney, Joe Conley, Alvin Gentry, Will Keefer, Raymond Owens, Tommy Barry, Willie Logue Reilly and Jamie Sexton.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Watson entertained at their home, 2431 West Chestnut street, in honor of Mr. Watson's sister, Mrs. Frank Jones. After the games the guests were seated at an elegant luncheon. The prizes, which were costly and handsome, were eagerly contested for.

Miss Mamie Field entertained a large number of her friends with a delightful Halloween party Wednesday night at her home on Sixteenth street. The guests were kept busy playing many novel games until 11 o'clock, when they were seated to a bounteous supper. Among those present were Misses May Crowder, Mary Higgins, Isabelle Crowder, Elsie Pectlen, Edna Simmons, Nellie Crowder and Willie Field; Messrs. Carl Pectlen, Julius Waller, Jack Groves, Fred Sauer, Lawrence Crowder, Joe Vollmer and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sauer.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schweltzer quietly celebrated their silver wedding at their home, 822 Clay street, last Sunday. The family of eight children and a son-in-law received holy communion at St. Martin's church, Monsignor Francis Zabler, Rev. Father Thome and Rev. Father Berresheim celebrating high mass for the couple. There was an informal reception after the ceremony, when many tendered their congratulations. William Schweltzer holds a responsible position with John and Frank Walters, proprietors of the well-known Clay-street brewery.

Miss Beatrice Montgomery and J. Frederick Ramp, of Chicago, were the contracting parties at a pretty wedding ceremony performed by Rev. Father O'Grady at St. Aloysius' church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The bride is among the best-known and most attractive young ladies residing in the East End, and her departure from Louisville will be regretted by her host of friends. After the ceremony the happy pair left upon their honeymoon trip, and November 10 will be at home to their friends in Chicago, where the groom is engaged in business.

Invitations have been issued to the marriage of Miss Nellie Mulcahy and Charles O'Keefe, which will be solemnized at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rev. Father O'Sullivan performing the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Mulcahy, East Market street, and the sister of Misses Sallie and Alice Mulcahy. She is an attractive and charming young lady, who will be missed among the social set of the East End. Charles O'Keefe is a well-known and highly respected young man, who has been engaged in the tobacco business on Main street for some years. This wedding will be largely attended because of the popularity of the contracting parties.

The secret is out at last, says the Tatler in the Times. Some years ago Mr. Robert Keyer, one of the most popular young men in Louisville, astonished his friends by taking leave of them in order to go into the cotton business, with headquarters at Natchez. One of his brothers was in the same business at Memphis, and it was his success in that line which urged Mr. Keyer to adopt the calling of a cotton broker. His friends told him he could not stand the Mississippi climate; that he would be forced to death at Natchez and other consolatory remarks, but he persisted in going, and after a year returned on a visit to his home and expressed his satisfaction with his new place of abiding. He was in the city this summer on a flying trip, and there seemed something most mysterious in his conduct. He no longer visited the girls and showed a marked disinclination for social calling. The cause of all this has come to light. This week friends in Louisville have received invitations to his marriage. He will wed Miss Laura Arrighi, daughter of Capt. Frank J. Arrighi, of Natchez, November 8, at St. Mary's Cathedral at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Miss Arrighi is said to be a beautiful and charming girl, and it is to be hoped that he will bring his bride to Kentucky to present her to his old friends in this city.

FASHION FOIBLES.

Arah lace is very popular.

Panne velvet spotted with gold is very attractive.

Black fox showing a few white hairs is reported as one of the favorite furs for boas.

Bands of lace insertion alternated with tucked bands of gray silk form effective waists.

Grecian satin, a new wool material for evening wraps and tea gowns, has a tiny diagonal stripe on the surface.

Red velvet applique designs embroiled with gold are the decoration on the borders of a white taffeta silk waist.

A pretty waist is made of cream-spotted net, tucked at wide intervals, filled in with tiny bias bands of colored silk stitched on the edges.

In general the new skirts are extremely full around the feet, even more so than they were in the summer, and a medium amount of fulness is disposed of around the hips in the most unobtrusive manner.

Plain colored silk waists with a holero of heavy lace are very good style and there seems to be ever and always the waist with a fancy yoke. Velvet waists with pin spots of white will be worn later on when more warmth is required.

A rough material called frieze, subdued by a surface of white hair, seems to be one of the smart materials for winter. These rough fabrics are usually trimmed liberally with bands of silk or satin, covered with rows of stitching or with some of the fancy braids.

Narrow tucks in a group of five or seven trim some of the cloth skirts, but they are stitched down flat through the three thicknesses instead of being sewn in the accustomed manner. Braid is very much used as a skirt trimming for cloth gowns, but that one word gives very little idea of the variety there is.

A skirt without any trimming at all is shown among the new fall models, but the real novelty is cut in princess style, the fullness at the back confined in close small tucks, which extend in girdle form up the back, where there are straps of the material which cross like suspenders and are carried over the shoulders.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

Mary Considine, only sister of Rev. Father Considine, was buried at Ardagh, County Galway, October 18.

The Most Rev. Dr. Kelly, Bishop of Ross, left for Rome on the 16th ult. for the purpose of paying his first episcopal visit to the Holy Father.

The death of Thomas Fitzgerald, aged sixty-five years, was deeply regretted in Dublin. His funeral took place Wednesday morning, October 17.

The funeral of Elie Tasse, widow of the late Christopher Tasse, who passed away at Brook Lodge, County Roscommon, occurred October 18.

Sir Nicholas R. O'Conor, British Ambassador to Constantinople, accompanied by Lady O'Conor and children, have arrived at the family seat, Dundermott, County Roscommon.

It is rumored that Gerald Balfour will resign the Chief Secretaryship, and that he will be succeeded by St. John Brodrick, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs in the last Government.

Sincere sympathy was felt for Alderman Russell, whose oldest daughter, Mary Russell, died at her father's residence in Dublin. Her funeral took place on the 18th ult. at St. Teresa's church, the services being largely attended.

It is rumored in North Derry that Horace Plunkett will be asked to stand for that constituency in the event of the promotion of Mr. Atkinson to the Lord Chancellorship. It is supposed in the constituency that the Lord Chancellor is about to retire.

The latest issue of the Clare Man states that J. J. Daly, Solicitor and County Councillor for the Ennistymon district, has decided to open an office at Kilrush in addition to those already established at Ennis and Ennistymon. Mr. Daly has the reputation of being an able lawyer.

The month's memory office for the repose of the soul of the late Very Rev. Joseph Nolan, of Garrison, was celebrated in the parochial church of his late parish. The ceremonies were conducted in the presence of a large gathering of the people of the parish and of the local and other clergy.

A movement has been set on foot in Birr among people of all denominations and political views for the purpose of presenting Bernard C. Molloy with a service of plate and an illuminated address in recognition of his twenty-one years' public service as member of Parliament for the division.

After a protracted illness Theophilus McWeeny, the veteran chief of the Freeman's Journal reporting staff, passed away October 15. The news of his death will be received with profound regret by the many friends whom Mr. McWeeny had attracted to himself during his long and distinguished professional career.

The announcement of the death of Sister Mary Gertrude Dunne, which occurred at the Convent of Our Lady of Mercy, St. Joseph's, Tullamore, created deep and genuine regret in the town. The deceased Sister had attained the eighty-second year of her age and the forty-seventh of her religious profession.

Samuel McClintock, aged twenty-nine, laborer, committed suicide by hanging himself in Derry prison. He had been committed to jail for fourteen days for drunkenness. It is stated he was addicted to the use of methylated spirit and had previously attempted suicide. McClintock had only four days of his present sentence served.

The sixth anniversary of the consecration of St. John's Cathedral, Limerick, was celebrated on Sunday, in the presence of the Bishop, Most Rev. Dr. O'Dwyer, who presided at the impressive religious ceremony and a large gathering of the laity, many of whom came from distant parishes to do honor to the solemn and historic occasion.

A very sad accident occurred near Dumbury, Belfast. Richard Maze, a well-known carrier, together with his sons, were returning to Lisburn from Belfast, and when a short distance beyond Dumbury the old man was seen to suddenly fall off his cart. His sons, who were in charge of other carts, at once went to his assistance and were surprised to find that life was extinct.

The estate of Lord Clare at Mount Shannon, near Limerick, has been disposed of to a wealthy Australian named Newlin. The place was purchased by John, the first Earl of Clare, who supported the passing of the act of union and was held by successive members of the family down to about twenty years back. The furniture, paintings, etc., were sold by auction fifteen years ago. The sale practically ends the history of the Clare family.

P. Conway, who had been for many years principal teacher at Draperstown, County Derry, but who changed some time ago to Dromara, County Down, recently paid a visit to his friends in the former town and on his arrival got a very pleasant surprise from the people in the shape of a beautiful illuminated address and a neat purse of sovereigns. The presentation was made in Patrick O'Neill's hotel, where the party were subsequently entertained by Mr. Conway and spent a most enjoyable evening.

Considerable sensation was caused in Derry recently by the report of a murder in the vicinity of Newtownstewart, County Tyrone. The dead body of a laud surveyor named Thomas Hegarty was found on the roadside a mile from Newtownstewart, with lacerated wounds in the face. It seems that Hegarty was at Strabane sessions and gave evidence in a case there and left for home in a cart. He never reached his residence alive. A rumor of foul play spread after the finding of the body. Coroner Elliott, Strabane, ordered a post-mortem, which was held by Dr. Lyle and Dr. Rankin. Both stated death resulted from heart disease.

The movement for the preservation and spread of the Irish language received a very practical fillip by two public meetings held at Ardmore and Grange, County Waterford. Thomas Connean, the Gaelic League organizer, arrived at Ardmore on Sunday and a public meeting was held outside the chapel gate after last mass. Father Walsh was moved to the chair and there was a large and representative attendance. The proceedings throughout were conducted in Gaelic, which, judging by the applause and frequent "voices," was understood by practically every one present. At the conclusion of the public meeting those present adjourned to the school rooms, where a lot of practical work was done toward organizing the district in the interest of the language movement.

RECENT DEATHS.

Miss Mary Casey, who resided at Twelfth and Maple streets, died Thursday at her home, 1511 Twentieth street, from infirmities incident to old age. She was the mother of Mrs. Johanna Barry and for many years a resident of the West End. Her funeral took place from the Sacred Heart church Thursday afternoon, Rev. Father Walsh officiating at the solemn services.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hourigan, aged eighty-eight years, died last Tuesday at her home, 1511 Twentieth street, from infirmities incident to old age. She was the mother of Mrs. Johanna Barry and for many years a resident of the West End. Her funeral took place from the Sacred Heart church Thursday afternoon, Rev. Father Walsh officiating at the solemn services.

The sad news was received here Wednesday of the death at Padua of Michael McLaughlin, aged seventy years. He was the son of Daniel McLaughlin, of 1720 Twelfth street, and was formerly employed by the Louisville Iron and Bridge Company here, where he had many friends. His remains were brought to this city for interment, the funeral being held at St. Louis Bertrand's church yesterday morning.

Miss Kate Twohig, sister of Officer James Twohig, died last Monday night at the family residence, 1711 High street, making the second death in that family within the past few months, her mother preceding her. The deceased was a young woman of many Christian virtues and her death is sincerely mourned by many relatives and acquaintances. The funeral took place Thursday morning from St. Patrick's church.

The many Louisville friends of Mrs. Charles McGarigle will be sorry to learn of her death, which occurred at her home in Cincinnati last week. Her funeral took place from the Cathedral there, Rev. Father Walsh celebrating the mass and delivering a touching funeral sermon on the Christian virtues of the deceased. Mrs. McGarigle often visited Louisville and had many acquaintances in the Falls Cities. She is mourned by her husband and a host of friends. She was also the aunt of Frank Cunningham, formerly of this city, but now of St. Louis, who passed through here last week en route to the funeral.

Mr. Sentinel—I have you ever looked forward to the future? Mr. Hardinge—Never reached his residence alive. A rumor of foul play spread after the finding of the body. Coroner Elliott, Strabane, ordered a post-mortem, which was held by Dr. Lyle and Dr. Rankin. Both

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

St. Paul Hibernians will celebrate Thanksgiving with a grand ball.

The divisions of Providence are all giving fairs and balls and meeting with great success.

There are hundreds of Irishmen in Louisville who should become members of this noble society.

Many are looking to President John Cavanaugh to inaugurate steps for the formation of a ladies' auxiliary.

The select ball Monday night was an unqualified social success. Many hope the County Board will give another in the near future.

Division 2 meets next Thursday evening. President Meehan desires a full attendance of members and invites visitors from other divisions.

The Hibernians have reason to feel proud of their work for the Sisters' bazaar. They contributed more to its success than any other two organizations.

A meeting of St. Paul Hibernians was held last Sunday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the advisability of organizing a company of Hibernian Knights.

The first meeting in November will be held next Wednesday evening. Division 3 will have important business to transact and several applications are expected.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 2 of Buffalo gave a card party last week. The proceeds went to swell the funds of the auxiliary table at the fair to be held soon for the benefit of the Cathedral.

Great interest is shown in the contest for the diamond ring for the coming Cathedral fair in Buffalo. Each table is to have a representative, Miss Marie McMahon being the candidate of the Hibernians and Ladies' Auxiliary.

The Young Ladies' Auxiliary of the Young Men's Institute gave the second of their series of dances Wednesday evening at their hall on Ninth street. The large attendance indicates the increasing popularity of these socials, which are perhaps the most enjoyable given this season.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 8 of Providence was launched week before last with sixty-five members. At a meeting held since thirteen more were initiated. This is the second auxiliary organized there during October. State and county officers were present upon both occasions.

The bazaar given by the ladies of Holy Trinity church to raise funds to aid Rev. Father Kelly, their beloved pastor, in the purchase of new pews, came to a successful close Monday night, with a brilliant eucrhe. About $700 was realized. Hibernian night drew forth a most gratifying attendance.

The Hibernians of Anaconda Mount, opened their fair in Hibernian Hall last Tuesday evening with a good crowd, and the good attendance was kept up during the balance of the week, says the correspondent of the Irish Standard. The fair is being held for the purpose of raising funds to clear the debt of the magnificent structure which was completed and opened by the order March 17, 1899. The fair will be continued the present week. The ladies are all hustling at the various booths and it is expected that at least $5,000 will be closed. The Hibernians of Butte are coming down some night to attend in a body.

NOSED HIM OUT.

In the Argonauts of California C. W. Haskins tells a good story of sauerkraut. In one of the mining districts near Sacramento a storekeeper received a barrel of provisions which seemed to be spoiled, to judge by the smell. Instead of throwing it away he thrust it into one corner of a shed, where waste and rubbish were piled up.

One day a burly, dust-covered Dutchman entered the store.

"I wants me some dot," pointing toward the shed.

"What is dot?" inquired the storekeeper.

"I shows you," said the miner. "You shust come mit me." And to the shed they went, where, pointing to the rubbish heap, the Dutchman explained, "Some of dot in dere vas'val I wants."

Boxes and barrels were removed and the condemned barrel was exposed. But when the miner eagerly pointed to it the trader told him it was spoiled meat, not fit to eat.

"I knows better as dot," said the Dutchman. "You bust him in und I shows you."

An ax was brought and the barrel "busted in," when, instead of spoiled meat, there was revealed some good, old-fashioned sauerkraut, made in Holland and shipped around Cape Horn.

"I knows it," said the delighted miner. "I nose him out!"

The sauerkraut sold readily at a dollar a pound and was in great demand. The Dutch miners heard of it and walked ten and fifteen miles to get a taste of the dainty.

EDWARD BARRY.

Cork Member of Parliament
Has Two Brothers in This State.

They Are John and Joe Barry,
Residing at New Haven.

Full List of Irish Members of the Next House of Commons.

MORE STRONGLY UNITED THAN EVER

Edward Barry, who was re-elected a member of the British Parliament from South Cork for the third consecutive time, is a brother of John J. Barry, editor of the New Haven Echo, and Joseph Barry, also of New Haven, they being the only male survivors of the original Cork Barry family existing today. The Barrys are well-known in Nelson county and throughout the State, and their friends will read with interest the following sketch of the Nationalist member of Parliament, who has always been a strong Home Ruler and was among the first to go to the assistance of John Redmond and William O'Brien in establishing unity in the Irish party on its present basis, and also the first member to adopt the principles of the United Irish League, taken from the Cork County Eagle:

"The convention held in Skibbereen was certainly the largest ever held in the Town Hall for the purpose of selecting a Nationalist representative in Parliament for the Division of South Cork. It was unique in its way, composed as it was of popularity elected bodies and delegates from the various Nationalist societies within the constituency and it may be taken as an exhaustively representative gathering. As we anticipated last week, Edward Barry, who sat for the division since 1892, was the unanimous choice of the meeting, and indeed it would be difficult to get a more worthy or faithful member, because since his election to Parliament he has worked with an earnestness and an unostentatious singleness of purpose which can not be excelled. His speech was an honest and practical one and gave thorough satisfaction, as he promised in the future, as in the past, to support the demands of the majority of the Irish people in the House of Commons. That the great meeting in Skibbereen recognized his worth is amply proved by the unanimity of his selection, and we are certain that at the next dissolution he will hand back unsullied the trust reposed in him by the people of South Cork. We congratulate Mr. Barry on his selection, believing as we do that he is the right man in the right place."

The following list gives the names of the Irish members returned to the new British Parliament. Of the ninety-nine successful candidates eighty-two are Nationalists and supporters of the United Irish League. The first sixteen represent boroughs and the others counties. Those whose politics are not specified are Nationalists:

Belfast—East, G. W. Wolff, Conservative; West, H. O. Aruold-Forestor; South, W. Johnston, Conservative; North, Sir J. H. Haslett, Conservative.

DELEGATES

Elected by the Central Labor
Union to Two Conventions.

Allied Printing Trades Council
Is After the Avenue Theater.

New Delegates Admitted and Various Matters Referred to Committees.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE CONVENTION

The annual election of delegates to the American Federation of Labor and the State Federation of Labor brought out an unusually large attendance at the monthly meeting of the Central Labor Union, which was held at Beck's Hall last Sunday afternoon. President John Fuchs presided and all of his rulings were accepted without question. Credentials were received and the following delegates admitted as members of the central body:

Painters and Decorators—Messrs. Dickerson and Hess.

Cigarmakers—Martin Metzger.

Wood Carvers—Albert Raihert and F. Hoffman.

Horseshoers—John Dawson.

A communication was received from the Paterson Typographical Union relative to the contest now being made in the courts of New Jersey against the enforcement of an ordinance passed by the Paterson City Council requiring the union label on all city printing. The printers call for financial assistance from all sister unions interested in the welfare of their labels.

Another communication read was from the Louisville Allied Printing Trades Council regarding the absence of the allied trades label from the Avenue Theater programme. This was referred to the Grievance Committee. The Typographical Union will doubtless take action upon this matter at its meeting tomorrow.

The Booths' Union entered complaint against the lack of interest taken in the employment of members of their organization by many master barbers in the city. The Organization Committee will call upon the owners of the shops referred to and endeavor to make an amicable settlement of their differences.

The report of the special committee to whom had been referred the matter in controversy between the Buckingham Theater and the Theatrical Alliance was received. It stated that everything had been settled satisfactorily, the Buckingham Theater being a union house in every department.

Delegate Dietz, of the Grievance Committee, submitted a report in the matter of the Two Jakes Sign Company. The company expressed its willingness and desire to affiliate with the union, but upon the condition that the sign painters elect new officers. There followed quite a lengthy discussion, which resulted in the entire matter being referred back to the local sign painters' organization.

Encouraging reports were made by members of the committees making arrangements for the entertainment of the delegates and visitors to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which will be in session here for about ten days, beginning December 6. Quite a handsome sum of money has already been donated for this purpose, but all trades unions and many business men will be urged to contribute as liberally as possible, as the working people of Louisville desire to maintain its reputation for hospitality. Music Hall has been secured for the convention and hotel accommodations provided for.

For delegate to the American Federation of Labor there were but two nominated, James McGill and George R. French. The former declined and Delegate French was elected by acclamation. Mr. French has had long experience in the trades union movement, having served as President of the local Cigar Makers' Union and delegate to the Central Labor Union, and Louisville will have no cause to regret his selection as its representative.

Nominations for delegate to the State Federation of Labor were called for and after declinations to serve by Messrs. Herman Christian, James Roberts and Walter Young, who could not lose the necessary time from their business, James Looney, of the Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union, was chosen by acclamation.

The Brewers' Union reported that they were making progress toward organizing the local breweries in all their departments. After the transaction of other routine business of minor interest the meeting adjourned.

BRYAN'S ANCESTRY.

If hereditary tendency counts for anything, William J. Bryan may, though he defeated for the Presidency of the United States this year, eventually occupy the White House, even if he has to wait half a century and more for the honor, for his great-grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bryan Cobb, is alive and just celebrated her ninety-seventh birthday. She is the eldest of the surviving daughters of the Revolution, her father having been Major Daniel Gano, a colonial artillery commander, and her grandfather was the famous "fighting chaplain," Rev. John Gano, who was brigade chaplain of the Revolutionary struggle. Her husband was a hero of the war of 1812.
